Introduction to TILT: Transparency in Teaching and Learning

This workshop is for faculty who have not yet attended a TILT workshop or need an introductory refresher on the TILT process. Research indicates that transparent assignment design significantly enhances students' success, with even greater gains for historically underserved students. This presentation will cover the key principles underlying the Transparency in Learning and Teaching (TILT) framework and provide evidence for its efficacy. Participants will discuss examples of what transparent teaching and learning looks like in practice and will discuss how to scale this approach across the disciplines.

Open Education: Creating Local and Equitable Curriculum (Session 1 of 2)

Nashville State now has multiple faculty members involved in two different OER grant initiatives. Please join your fellow faculty members (and a guest speaker from STEM!), as well as some select guest speakers in a two-part series on Open Education. In the first session, hear from faculty on their experience with OER, each team on where we are in the grant, and how the OER process has improved and personalized our courses. The EHCT grant team will also display our Universally Designed for Learning course shell, which will be available for all faculty through the Teaching Center!

Student Driven Assessment of Student Belonging at Nashville State

The Student Voices Initiative was a 2020-21 grant from TBR to assess Nashville State students' sense of belonging. What made this project unique was the focus groups were led by Nashville State students. Discussion will include the process of training the student focus group facilitators, recruiting students to participate in focus groups, ultimately with the most success in PSYC 1030 Introduction to Psychology classes, and the data from over 100 students. You will then go through the paces of a focus group to assess faculty sense of belonging at Nashville State. (If the workshop is in person, faculty should bring a pen to complete a survey; if virtual, faculty will complete an online survey.)

Implementation and Impact of a Values Reflection in NSCC 1010B

We collaborated with the University of Virginia's Motivate Lab to implement a value affirmation intervention in NSCC 1010 in fall 2019. We reached over 600 students in over 60 sections of the on-ground course.

We continued our collaboration in 2020-21, by developing a virtual version of the intervention. Session participants will role-play a shortened version of the intervention and then see the qualitative data (pre- and post-mindset surveys) and qualitative data (reflection coding results) from our fall 2019 study. We hope our experience will help you consider value interventions in your courses.

Discover your innovation style through the Basadur Profile

The Basadur Innovation Profile Inventory measures your unique blend of preferences for the four stages of the innovation process: generating, conceptualizing, optimizing, implementing. Over the next year, NSCC Faculty, Staff, and Administrators will begin to use this learning tool as we work to discover how we best work together towards the goals of the college. (Session does require pre-registration and completion of profile before workshop. Link to complete profile will be sent to participants prior to workshop)

First-Year Student Degree Plans in the First-Weeks

We will show participants the value of degree planning in NSCC 1010. Students save their degree plan in Degree Works so it may be accessed, edited, and audited by not only the student but also their advisor once the five-week course ends. Students learn how to use the degree planning tools at their disposal but also the value of their degree and the courses. At the end of the workshop, you will make a Degree Works plan as if you were a student. Attendees will need access to a computer for this workshop to use Degree Works (Google Chrome browser works best.)
